WELCOME TO 2020

World Cup
Series

AND OFF TO THE 2020 OLYMPIC GAMES

This week the 470's, Finns and RS:X sailors complete another leg of Olympic qualification. The other classes have February qualification series. So here's what to watch:

Men's 470s - ILYA member Canadian Luke Ramsay is competing. A recent fundraising letter started (paraphrased) - "most important thing about Luke is his marriage to Annie Haeger". While that may be true in this part of the country, Luke is an Olympian twice. He jumped in the boat literally only a few months ago but has competed in the 2012 and 2016 games.

Womens' 470s - White Bear's sailor Laura Dallman-Weiss is competing with Nikole Barnes.

Finns - Luke Muller has Lake Geneva connections and is one to watch here.

Book to View - A Beauty from Minnetonka

Steve Bernstein

Lake Minnetonka sailor and photographer and longtime friend of the Inland has put together an outstanding collection of photographs from his home lake. The entire book was shot by drone over the last year and includes both familiar and not-to-familiar locations and events on Tonka's Big Water.

You can see some of Steve's work at www.PowerPlayActionImages.com and check out the book at <https://above-lake-minnetonka.myshopify.com> largest programs in the Midwest. And with numbers comes FUN! The students and instructors provide an exceptional environment for the summer. Apply to sail@glss.org if you have experience coaching 420s and Melges 14s. The students are highly motivated and there is always tough volleyball competition on Geneva. Geneva hosts a weeklong regatta as well as multiple other class regattas throughout the year. Enjoy their excitement.

Delavan Lake Sailing School - Fun abounds at Delavan. The program is strong with Optis and X boats. This is a place where coaches are appreciated. The social factor at Delavan is off the charts. The fleets last year showed such improvement and consistency. They are looking for an experienced coach. Contact Renee Clair.

Nagawicka Lake Sailing School - Nag boasts a beautiful lake with a young fleet. This is a place to make your mark as the fleet matures and develops. Nagawicka Lake Yacht Club is seeking a Lead instructor for X, opti and 420, full time hours available for the 2020 Summer Season. The Lead instructor will be responsible for organizing lessons, providing classroom and on the water instruction, accompany sailors to regattas, and be a resource for both youth and parents. The Lead Instructor will be involved in program development and participant recruitment. Candidate must be reliable and demonstrate outstanding sailing skills. Would prefer instructor be at level 2 before class (partial reimbursement available). Pay for this position will be competitive and based on experience. Download the application here.
