ILYA Championships - Plans Firming up

Buddy Melges appears to be working on the new center carrying his name. Click here to see an E scow make its way into the center before we arrive. It appears whether water or land, Melges can't keep his hands and eyes off scows. The new clubhouse is nearing completion. Fleet racing begins this weekend.

The regatta committee is placing finishing touches on launching, parking, mooring and logistics. The early info is A's will be sailing from Gage, members' homes or moored. The MCs will be closest to the launch area and will be hand-pulled down to the lake. Parking volunteers will be managing the trailers to allow sailors to stay with their boats. E scows will be parking the closest to the road but will have their cars attached to the boat. C scows can moor or park between the MC's and E's. They will be pulled down with tractors. So how does this happen? With loads of volunteer help. We are asking that you volunteer for a shift when you are not sailing. Ask your family members or neighbors to come enjoy the event while helping out. Free food while you work. Watch next week's edition of Scowlines for online volunteer opportunities.

The Bilge Pullers have agreed to sponsor the Saturday Night Party which will be Caribbean in theme. Friday's Perrigo Legends and Heroes party is picnic fare and is meant to be for the entire family. Minute to Win It games provided by Lake Beulah and Long Lake, IL.

Details are in the final stage to offer sailing school on Thur-Fri-Sat for those 10 and under. It will be 10:00 to 2:00 so you have planned activities for your young ones. More to come as sailing director Joe Kutschenreuter pulls it all together.

It is still not too late to sponsor part of the event so show your generosity so the sailors enjoy the event even more. The full meal package is subsidized by sponsorship now at approximately 20% off for the full package. --- REGISTRATION IS OPEN.

Andy Burdick with Maya and Finn Win C Nationals

Minnetonka Hospitality Outstanding

Without exception, C Nationals competitors would declare Minnetonka the winner. The club provided housing in homes around the lake for all who requested, served a Saturday night Allen Shrimp Boil that was scrumptuous and plentiful, worked at good wind but that was out of their control. It was a marvelous event with everyone leaving happy.

On the water Andy Burdick was a standout with his two children on board. He passed the microphone to his children for the acceptance speech. Finn was comically entertaining with a sparkle of mischievous fun and Maya has grown (longest legs ever) into a graceful, thoughtful, articulate young girl ready to enter the 6th grade. Ed Eckert graciously accepted runner up honors noting Andy was a level above the rest of the fleet sailing so well with youngsters onboard. He acknowledged the fleet's respect for Andy's performance and the fleet's pleasure sailing with such a fine role model. And that attitude summed up the event.

The regatta was a tough light air event with wind shifts all weekend. Sailing ended on Saturday after two AM races. The results Friday and Saturday were dissimilar as the fleet fluctuated wildly -- all the result of the strength and depth of the fleet. Five different race winners took honors: Kent Haeger, John Porter, Andy Burdick, Jim Tewes and Jim Gluek.

Jane Pegel Honored with Education Award

AAUW Leader in Education Awards May 16, 2015

The Geneva Lake Branch of the American Association of University Women held their annual spring brunch on Saturday, May 16 at The Highlands of Geneva Crossing. One of the highlights was the presentation of the Leader in Education awards to two outstanding people in our community. In addition to honoring them at our May Brunch, a donation is made in each honoree's name to the AAUW Education Fund. This honor is presented to individuals who have demonstrated vision, inspiration and have made an outstanding contribution to our community. Our first Leader in Education to be recognized is:

Jane Pegel who has a fascinating background and, in light of the emphasis AAUW places on Title IX, has been a shining example of success in athletics and educational leadership. She has retired from competitive sailing, but her influence through the Lake Geneva Yacht Club continues to be strong. During the decades that she raced, she inspired her fellow sailor - girls and boys, men and women - with her expertise and her intellectual approach to equipment, preparation and practice, attention to detail, and analysis of weather conditions.

At the Geneva Lake Sailing School as an instructor and later as the director, Jane shared her expertise both in the classroom and on the lake with a generation of sailors, stressing teamwork, sportsmanship, and safety, and introducing many of them to what would become their lifetime sport. Jane also served on the school's Board of Directors and as its president.

Under the heading US Sailing, which is the national authority for the sport of sailing, Jane was the manager of the US Team at the 1983 International Yacht Racing Union Women's World championship in New Zealand. Jane was the recipient in 1953 and again in 1990 of the Edmund Pillsbury Memorial Cup for compiling the outstanding record at the ILYA Annual Regatta those years. Jane was the only woman to receive this award until 2009; and she was inducted into the Inland Lake Yachting Association Hall of Fame in 2008, the only woman so honored to date.

At the Lake Geneva Yacht Club, she is, and has been for many years, Chief Judge at the yacht club, resolving protests and sharing with sailors young and old her knowledge of the racing rules of sailing; and she has been the recipient of the yacht club's special service award which demonstrates to the members the importance the club puts on her ongoing volunteerism and committee work.

Jane's varied achievements, her selection three times as US yachswoman of the Year, her contributions and dedication to the sport of sailing have certainly had an impact on the Geneva Lake community and continue to inspire us all. Jane and her husband Bob were both involved in summer and winter sailing, and Jane remains particularly interested in the programs for children at the club and school, serving every week on the race committee for the kids racing. Jane is truly an educator and an outstanding woman leader in our community.
